PERISH IN TYPHOON

Thousands Reported to Have Lost Their Lives.

Chinese Vessels Disabled and Hundreds Who Escaped Drowning Starve to Death.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE

Yokohama, B. O., Nov. 30.—Advices are received from South China by the Athenian of the loss of thousands of lives as a result of the destruction of several hundred fishing junks in a typhoon off Swatow.

The havoc was awful when the gale swept down on the Chinese vessels. For days disabled junks drifted helplessly about, their occupants suffering from thirst and hunger.

The Hong Kong government tender Stanley rescued a number, picking up eight junks and taking 122 men off vessels that were abandoned. The Stanley then returned to the rescue for the rescued fishermen. It is reported that there were 400 junks fishing off Swatow when the typhoon came on November 4. From the Stanley 57 disabled junks were seen flying distress signals. Several junks were towed to Hong Kong and then a relief cruise was made.

Meanwhile three torpedo boat destroyers, the naval water boat Cherub and a Chinese cruiser were sent out and rescued many. Several hundred men were taken from wrecked craft suffering greatly, some being without food or water from two to five days. Of the four hundred fishing junks at least three hundred are reported disabled or sunk and thousands of lives were lost.

STRIKE SETTLED

COOPERAGE COMPANY EMPLOYEES RETURNED TO WORK TODAY.

The strike at the Paducah Coopers company has been settled, the men returning to work this morning. There were sixty out and the company has been running short of men since they walked out last week. The men quit on account of a misunderstanding about a certain class of cooperage they had to work on. No agreement was made by the strikers and company, the men simply returning to work as they left.

Miss Annie Galliger, of Cairo, is visiting Miss Flora Pettit at her home on South Sixth street.

BARDWELL HOLD-UP

One of the Chicago Desperadoes Confesses to it.

The Police Amazed at the Startling Story of the Young Bandit.

SAYS HE WILL TELL ALL

The mystery of who held up the Illinois Central train near Bardwell, Ky., 35 miles below Paducah seems now to have been solved. Peter Neidermeier, one of the desperate murderers and bandits arrested at Chicago has confessed to being one of the men in the memorable holdup, which was conducted in traditional western style, and created great excitement throughout the country.

Yesterday's Chicago dispatches state that the young desperado wants to tell all he knows on condition that his mother be well cared for after he is hanged. The Bardwell robbery is reported as the "robbery of the Illinois Central limited express at Paducah, Ky.," etc., but this mistake probably resulted from the confusion caused by the fact that most of the dispatches about the holdup were sent out from Paducah, or it may be the prisoner is lying, and thinks the robbery he says he took part in took place near Paducah.

The prisoner claims he is author of many crimes of which the police know nothing, and for others for which innocent men are now suffering, and promises to tell all if the rewards are paid to his mother. The police do not entirely believe him although Chief of Police O'Neill, of Chicago, says he relates the details of the crimes only as one who was guilty could do.

A Chicago dispatch says further: Neidermeier refused, however, to divulge the names of his partners in the crimes referred to, pending proof that his mother would get the rewards. A few of the additional crimes he claims to have participated in are as follows:

Robbery of the Illinois Central limited express at Paducah, Ky., in which Barnes, one of the robbers, out his throat while surrounded in a swamp. The others escaped.

Holdup of a stage coach a mile from Butler, Nev., two years ago and robbing the mails. No one was shot and robbers escaped without recognition.

Holdup and robbery of Chicago and Northwestern passenger train near Boone, Ia., six months ago.

Holdup and attempted robbery of Baltimore and Ohio train at Edgemoor, Ind., four years ago.

Minor, oldups and robberies in and out of Chicago were mentioned by Neidermeier.

Special Agent W. Riley of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad promised him that Mrs. Neidermeier should be given the reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the Claybourne Station robbers after Neidermeier detailed the robbery to them and exonerated a man named Dolle of St. Louis, who is now under indictment.

Operator Dougherty and Ticket Agent Lathrop, the victims of the robbers in the Claybourne Station holdup, were present during Neidermeier's confession, going over with him in detail the robbery and the shooting of Lathrop.

Neidermeier detailed the Paducah, Ky., holdup perfectly, refusing to tell names for the reason that none of the Illinois Central detectives were present. He offered to tell Special Agent O'Keefe the entire story of the daring robbery and even show him the house in Kentucky where he hid after the robbery.

"I stalled the train alone," said Neidermeier. "Then I entered the baggage car and threw out three sacks. Barnes grabbed one of them. I did not get any and I was lucky in getting away with my life."

The police have been so appalled by Neidermeier's confessions that they hardly give credence to all his assertions. It is thought that his anxiety over his mother's welfare has prompted him to make himself the author of crimes he did not commit.

FOUR WERE SHOT

Two Killed Instantly and Others Will Die.

A Bloody Feud Breaks Out and Ouster Gardner Is Arrested as the Assassin.

GREAT EXCITEMENT PREVAILS

Munfordville, Ky., Nov. 30.—In the Dikeview neighborhood last night Squire Osborne and Dave Osborne, his son, were killed and Will Gardner and John Bennett were mortally shot at the squire's home.

The assassin poked a Winchester close to the window and fired five times in rapid succession. The deaths were instantaneous, the squire's head being blown almost off.

Posses were at once organized and at 5 a. m. captured Ouster Gardner, at Elizabethtown, Ky., and hustled him off to jail at Munfordville.

He won't talk.

There has been a feud between the factions headed by Squires Osborne and Ouster Gardner, and many threats of extermination have been made.

The whole country is aroused and there may be a lynching tonight.

All concerned are related and all are prominent.

The alleged assassin is a wealthy young farmer.

From the assertions made by Neidermeier and Van Dine today, it is said by the police that more arrests will be made.

COLD BATH

BOY FALLS OFF THE DOCKS INTO THE RIVER.

Charles Burns, a small white boy about 12 years of age, had an ice bath yesterday morning in the Ohio river which he will remember for some time.

The boy was playing about the dry docks about 8 o'clock yesterday morning and in walking from one barge to the other was overbalanced by a loose plank and thrown into the river in about 12 feet of water. The boy is a good swimmer and managed to swim out. He repaired to a nearby stove and dried his clothes and was apparently none the worse from the experience when seen selling papers on Broadway shortly after. He resides at Ninth and Burnett streets.

SOLD BY SHERIFF.

The Alec McCarty grocery stock was this morning sold at public auction by Deputy Sheriff Lyon to Mr. William Robinson for $195. Mr. Robinson will turn the grocery over to experienced grocery men and it will be ready for business immediately. The stock was sold on debt, the suit having been filed in circuit court more than two weeks ago.

Attorney Pete Seay, of Mayfield, is in the city.

ELOPED WITH A GIRL

Graves County Man Caught at the Depot Here Last Night.

Had Rosa Martin, a Fifteen Year Old Girl, On His Way to Brookport.

FINED FOR CARRYING GUN

A man giving the name of R. M. Futrell, about 35 years old, from a near Mayfield, will doubtless think twice before he attempts to elope again with a child. He and A. Futrell, supposed to be brothers, arrived about 1 o'clock last night with a girl in short dresses. Their actions at the Illinois Central depot excited the suspicion of Officers Aaron Hurley and Tobe Owen, and they tried to ascertain what the men were up to, but found them somewhat secretive.

The men got a little insolent towards the officers, and they telephoned to Marshal McNutt, of Mayfield, but he knew nothing of the object of the men having the girl. The girl told the officers her name was Rosa Martin and Marshal McNutt said he knew the girl's people, and that they were well to do residents of Graves county, living four miles from Mayfield between Mayfield and Pryorsburg.

The officers then took the girl aside and questioned her, and she admitted that she ran away from home with R. M. Futrell, the older man, and came direct to Mayfield and then to Paducah. They were going to Brookport, Ill., she said to be married. She said she was fifteen years old.

The officers then took R. M. Futrell into custody. As they did so he threw a coat to the other man, and the officers took possession of it and found a large pistol in the pocket. They then arrested both men for carrying concealed a deadly weapon.

It is understood that R. M. Futrell, who intended to get married, is a widower with two children, and he probably would have been unable to marry the girl had he succeeded in reaching Illinois, as she did not appear to be over thirteen years old and wore short dresses.

Dr. Rozzell, of Mayfield, happened to be in the city and took the girl back home at 4 o'clock this morning. The two Futrells were arraigned in the police court this morning on a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons and R. M. Futrell was fined $25 and given ten days in jail, and the other man was acquitted, there being no evidence to show that he knew a pistol was in the pocket of the coat when he took possession of it.

TRIED TO SHOOT WIFE

ACCIDENT IS ALL THAT PREVENTED A KILLING.

News of what was almost a tragedy comes from Columbus, Ky., below Fulton. Jim Mullens is the name of a farmer who lives two miles east of that place. He suddenly became insane yesterday and sticking the barrels of his gun into his wife's mouth, started to blow her brains out, but the gun became unbreached just in time to prevent the tragedy.

Her screams attracted the attention of passers by and they bound the man and wrested the gun from him and he will be sent to the asylum. He has been crazy four times, if not all the time, but has been in the asylum three times and will now be sent back again and doubtless kept there.

MRS. FRANK FULTON DYING—Mrs. Frank Fulton, wife of the manager of the Paducah Coopers company, who has been precariously ill for many weeks at her home on Madison street near Ninth, from a complication of diseases, was sinking rapidly at 3 o'clock this afternoon, and it was thought that she could not long survive.

THE POLICE REPORT—The number of arrests made during November up to this afternoon at press time was: White male, 101, colored male, 72; white female, 3, colored female 18; total, 194.

THE FIGHT NOT YET ON

Other Candidates do Not Concede Mr. Campbell's Victory

Claimed that Others will Organize the Convention at Wickliffe Wednesday.

MR. CAMPBELL HAS MAJORITY

The fight for State Senator in this district will be settled when the Democratic nomination is made at Wickliffe Wednesday, but until then the fight will not be over. The precinct conventions do not appear to have conclusively settled the case.

Attorney J. Wheeler Campbell appears to have secured a majority of instructed votes. He claims in the Senatorial district about 35 first instructed votes and about ten second instruction votes, forty and a fraction being necessary to win.

His victory is not conceded, however. Mr. Harry Tandy's friends claim that Mr. Campbell has about thirty votes, and that as a result Judge Moore, Judge Gardner and Mr. Tandy can join forces and organize the convention Wednesday.

Mr. Tandy has not given up. He claims to have carried five or six precincts in McCracken county, and a number in Marshall and other counties. His friends talk as if they with other delegates can nominate anyone else if they desire, in order to defeat Campbell.

Judge Tom Gardner, of Bardwell, carried Carlisle county solidly and Judge John Moore, of Ballard, received a majority of the votes in that county. Judge E. Barry, of Benton, received some votes in Marshall county, but is not a candidate and it is understood will not permit his name to go before the convention. W. A. Wickliffe, of Paducah, failed to cut any figure in the conventions. The vote will be: McCracken 30; Ballard 18; Carlisle 17; Marshall 15; total 80.

The fact that none of the other candidates concede Mr. Campbell's success indicates that they do not consider the battle over. It is probable there will be a lively time in the convention Wednesday.

IS IT OUR HUGH?

Body of a Hugh Mulholland Found in California.

His Friends Here Have Not Heard From Him in Quite Awhile.

The Sun has received the following clipping from a California paper, sent by a former resident of Paducah who thought perhaps the deceased was the Hugh Mulholland formerly of Paducah, and at one time postmaster here. The clipping is as follows:

Oakland, Nov. 19.—The body of Hugh Mulholland, a widower, who was employed in the Oakland street department, was found tonight floating in Lake Merritt. There were no papers found on the body explaining the suicide, as the morgue officials have determined the case to be. Deceased was about 50 years of age and lived at 332 Wadsworth avenue, and had been missing since last Friday.

There is no reason, however, for supposing the body was that of Hugh Mulholland, formerly of Paducah except the similarity of names. Mr. Mulholland was in Paducah a year or more ago, and has not since been heard from. He was then living in Boston, and was a "promoter," having assisted in the sale of the Grand Rivers iron furnaces. As he was very much a rover, it is possible he went to California, and that the body found was his.

The data collected extends over a period of thirty-two years. The normal temperature for the month is 38 degrees, the warmest month having been in 1889, when the mean temperature was 52 degrees. The coldest December was in 1876, when the mean temperature was 26 degrees. The highest temperature was on December 31, 1875, when 74 degrees was registered. The coldest day was December 29, 1880, when the temperature registered was 7 degrees below zero.

The average precipitation for the month is 3.77 inches, the heaviest precipitation during any one month was in 1879, when 7.98 inches of rain and melted snow were shown by instruments. BEST LINIMENT ON EARTH.

L. M. McHany, Greenville, Tex., writes, Nov. 2, 1900: "I had rheumatism last winter was down in bed six weeks; tried everything, but got no relief, till a friend gave me a part of a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I used it, and got two more bottles. It cured me and I haven't felt any rheumatism since. I can recommend Snow Liniment to be the best liniment on earth for rheumatism." For rheumatic, sciatic or neuralgic pains, rub in Ballard's Snow Liniment, you will not suffer long, but will be gratified with a speedy and effective cure. 25c, 50c and $1 at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

SUICIDE MANIA

IT IS SAID TO PREVAIL AMONG WOMEN OF NEW YORK.

New York, Nov. 30.—For reasons vague and mysterious, a remarkable number of women in and near New York have sought of late to take their lives and the newspapers are filled with the suicide or attempted suicide of women in all walks of life.

Apparently a wave of self-destruction has swept over the city, and women have been particularly susceptible to its blight. By acid, knife and pistol, they have tried to end supposedly unhappy existences, and several have succeeded.

An epidemic of suicide appears to have spread among young girls in Brooklyn.

Women of the stage were not exempt. A former member of the "Chinese Honeymoon" company lies on a cot in Bellevue hospital with three self-inflicted knife wounds.

The grim spectre of strange death has taken away a former beauty of the Tenderloin, that old mix of gaudy and tragedy of life.

A DANGEROUS MONTH.

This is the month of coughs, colds, and acute catarrh. Do you catch cold easily? Find yourself hoarse, with a tickling in your throat and an annoying cough at night? Then, you should always have handy a bottle of Ballard's Horehound Syrup J. A. Anderson, 35 West Fifth street, Salt Lake City, writes: "We use Ballard's Horehound Syrup for coughs and colds. It gives immediate relief. We know it's the best remedy for these troubles. I write this to induce other people to try this pleasant and efficient remedy." 25c, 50c and $1 at DuBois, Kolb & Co.

THE KAISER IS WORSE

Grave Fears Expressed Regarding His Condition.

He Is Reported to Have Now Quite Lost His Voice From Disease.

HE IS STILL CHEERFUL

Berlin, Nov. 30.—Notwithstanding the official bulletins that the kaiser is recovering his strength, and despite the fact that he has been allowed to take exercise in the open air, his condition is critical. The emperor's throat troubles are not over. Indeed, the serious time is yet to come. It is said that a fresh formation has begun to manifest itself, and that the trouble is extending from its original seat in the larynx.

The medical faculty naturally declines to discuss the case publicly, and while it is pointed out that Dr. Otto Schmidt, who recently operated upon the kaiser's larynx, has returned to Frankfurt, additional confirmation of the worst fears is found in the calling of a fourth surgeon in the kaiser's case.

INJURY IS PERMANENT.

New York, Nov. 30.—A Berlin cable to the World says the vocal chords of the kaiser are permanently injured. The correspondent says: "Lord Londale, who spent six hours with him today, talking over certain difficulties arising in connection with the transatlantic yacht race, says the emperor was very cheerful, but unable to speak except in a loud whisper. In other words, his voice is gone, and the most noted German voice specialist had been called in to treat him."

"It is pointed out that such a result does not follow the removal of an ordinary polypoid growth, and it is thought that the emperor put off the operation too long, owing to his official engagements."

"Other growths have begun to manifest themselves, it is also reported, though this is denied semi-officially. The emperor's system has been seriously taxed by anxiety and suffering. He is described as looking exceedingly ill. The physicians attribute his loss of voice to his insisting on going out four days after the operation."

BURNED TO A CRISP

MRS. P. W. WARREN AND A SERVANT MEET HORRIBLE FATE.

A horrible fate overtook Mrs. W. P. Warren and a domestic in her home, Miss Maud Morris, at Central City Saturday. Miss Morris attempted to start a fire in the grate and stuck a piece of paper down the lamp chimney. The lamp overturned and broke, and the young lady was covered with burning oil.

Mrs. Warren attempted to save her when her own clothing caught fire and they both ran frantically into the open air and were fatally burned. Mrs. Warren died at 12:20 and Miss Morris at 12:30. A six-year-old boy saved his seven weeks old sister by wrapping a shawl around her and carrying her to a place of safety.

Mrs. Warren was a second cousin of Mr. Enoch Lynn, of the city, and formerly resided at Brookport, Ill. Her remains arrived here Saturday night, accompanied by Mr. Warren, Rev. Hutchinson and Mr. S. P. Penrod, of Central City, and were taken to the residence of Mr. L. B. Lamb, 1125 Tennessee street, and taken to Brookport yesterday for burial. Mr. Warren is a baker.

The remains of Miss Morris were buried yesterday at Central City.

BACK TO KENTUCKY

Luke Ray Will Probably be Ordered Here for Trial.

Indicted for Passing Raised Bills in Paducah—Also Wanted for Murder.

NOW IN JAIL AT MEMPHIS

Luke Ray, one of the negroes arrested in Memphis for wholesale "raising" bills, and who is one of those who flooded Paducah with bills raised from $1's to $5's and $2's to $10's, will probably be brought to Kentucky for trial on a charge of murdering a special officer near Cave City some time ago, and for counterfeiting.

District Attorney Randolph, at Memphis, has received from the authorities of the United States court Louisville a warrant for the extradition of Ray, which was drawn on the strength of an indictment that had been returned by the federal grand jury in session at that place. The indictment returned at Louisville was for counterfeiting, and it charged Ray with having in the Western district of Kentucky altered and passed certain securities of the United States which were of a counterfeit nature. It is supposed these were the raised bills passed in Paducah, an indictment having been returned at the recent session of federal court here.

On the strength of this warrant Ray was given a hearing the United States commissioner at Memphis and the bail fixed at $5,000, which the prisoner was unable to raise.

An application was then made by the district attorney to Judge Hammond for an order of authority to have Ray removed to the Western district of Kentucky. The negro was brought into the United States courtroom before Judge Hammond in order that a hearing of the application might be made. When he was brought into the courtroom the handcuffs with which he had been brought from the jail were still upon his wrists, and a rather novel incident happened in the court as a result of this.

As soon as Judge Hammond saw the shackles upon the hand of the prisoner he ordered the marshal to remove them, stating that it was contrary to the dignity of the court to bring a prisoner in such a condition into court. No criticism was passed upon the marshal by Judge Hammond, who simply stated that it was contrary to the rights of a prisoner to bring him into court in manacles, unless he was violent and obstreperous and could not be handled by any other means. Judge Hammond granted a continuance of the case until today.

It is more than likely that the application for removal of the negro will be granted when the matter is given a hearing. There is very little evidence against Ray in Memphis to sustain an indictment for counterfeiting, while the Kentucky federal authorities have already secured numerous indictments against the negro.

In Kentucky the negro is also wanted by the state courts on a charge of murder. During the time he was being chased by the secret service department of Louisville it was learned that he had escaped from that place and was journeying out of the city on a box car. This information was telegraphed ahead, and a constable at one of the small stations attempted to make the arrest of the negro. Ray in company with Tolly were placed under arrest when the train reached this station, but while they were being brought to jail the constable was shot down by Ray, and both negroes managed to make their escape.

It is that the removal of the negro is asked by the Louisville federal court in order that he might be turned over to the state authorities and made to answer the charge of murder. It is also expected that the other negroes—Tolly, Davis and Ragland—will be permitted to remain in Memphis and tried.

THE SOLICITOR'S HOME

Is Almost Totally Destroyed by Fire This Morning.

Attorney Worten Thought the Blaze Was Subdued When the Flames Burst Forth Again.

LOSS IS ABOUT $1500

The residence of City Solicitor J. M. Worten, at 217 North Eighth street, partially burned this morning between 2 and 4 o'clock with a loss of about $1,500, covered by insurance.

The fire was a very peculiar one as it was at first thought to have been extinguished entirely with little damage, but after the firemen left the roof burst into flames and the house was nearly burned up before the firemen got back.

Last night Mr. Worten and family retired rather late on account of smelly smoke. They suspected the house was afire but could find no evidence anywhere. About 2 o'clock Mr. Worten was awakened and going down stairs found the pantry and kitchen ablaze. He was for a short time cut off from his family upstairs, the flames spreading to the hallway. He telephoned the fire department but before the family could get down stairs and out of the house, the flames had crept to the staircase and cut them off. The firemen hoisted ladders to the upstairs and Mrs. Worten and her two children Master Wheeler and little Miss Kate Worten, were forced to descend to the ground by this means.

The firemen did quick work and soon had the flames under control and extinguished as they thought. Mrs. Worten and children went across the street to Dr. S. B. Pulliam's residence and spent the night there. Mr. Worten started to remain at home but about 4 o'clock came over to Dr. Pulliam's stating that he had decided to spend the night there. As they glanced across the street to his house the roof suddenly became alive with flames and the firemen were again called. The house was badly damaged however, and will practically have to be built over again.

Mr. Worten stated that he could not imagine how the fire originated unless some rats had gotten into the walls with matches and started the conflagration. The fire evidently was in the walls and was not extinguished when the firemen left and slowly crept up to the roof where the flames got under headway by the draft.

POSTOFFICE THIEVES

YOUTHS CAUGHT AT NORTONVILLE HAVE KEYS.

James Fulkerson and Robert Newman, who are now in the Madisonville jail, charged with breaking into the store of R. H. Farmer & Co., at Nortonville, last Sunday night, will very likely have to answer to the charge of breaking into the postoffice at Weldon, Ky., on the night of November 19th. Among the lot of burglars' tools found near the place where the men were arrested was a post-office key. Postmaster Virgil Bacon, of Madisonville, reported the key and its number to the postal authorities and key was found to be the one missing from the postoffice at Weldon that was carried away the night of the robbery there. Inspector Sasong who was in Paducah Saturday, has been in Madisonville working on the case and a strong chain of evidence is tightening around the men.

CLIMATIC CURES.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular use of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer climate you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottles, 25c; regular size, 75c. For sale by DuBois, Kolb & Co.

WINTER IS COMING BRINGING CATARRH

Every Catarrh sufferer dreads the coming of winter, for with the first breath of the "ice-king" this miserable disease is fanned into life and all the disgusting symptoms return. The nostrils are stopped up and the throat can be kept clear of mucous secretions only by continual hawking and spitting. Catarrh is a nuisance and source of annoyance, not only to the one who has it, but everybody else. The thick, yellow discharge from the head produces a feeling of personal defilement, and the odor of the breath is almost intolerable.

The catarrhal poison brings on stomach troubles and affects the Kidneys and Bladder. It attacks the soft bones and tissues of the head and throat, causing total or partial deafness, the loss of smell, and giving to the voice a rasping, nasal twang. No part of the body is secure from its ravages. Catarrh makes you sick all over, for it is a disease of the blood, and circulates all through the system, and for this reason, sprays, washes, inhalers, powders and salves have proven failures.

The way to cure Catarrh thoroughly and permanently is to cleanse the blood of the unhealthy secretions that keep the membranes of the body inflamed, and nothing does this so surely and promptly as S. S. S. As long as the blood is poisoned with Catarrhal matter the discharge of mucus and other disgusting symptoms of the miserable disease will continue. S. S. S. goes to the fountain source of the trouble and purifies and enriches the blood, and so invigorates and tones up the system that catching cold and contracting Catarrh is not so likely to occur. Keep the blood in order and winter's coming brings none of the discomforts of Catarrh.

Write us particulars of your case, and let our physicians help you get rid of this blood-tainting and stubborn disease. We make no charge whatever for medical advice. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SCHOOL BOOK QUESTION.

Owing to the fact that no legislation has even been enacted in Kentucky tending to change the school book system, there is apparently no reason to believe that any will be attempted.
In fact, it is reported that the school book trusts, for there are several of them, have looked well to their interests in the past and are now amply protected in the matter of legislation in Kentucky. An interesting chapter might be written on the part the book trusts have taken in Kentucky politics, and of the aid they have given certain Democratic officials, but what good would it do?

The main thing about the book question is that too often serious mistakes
are made in attempting to cheapen school books. The teachers in the schools are, or ought to be, the best judges of such things, and they will be found almost unanimously opposed to the so-called uniformity of text books. The reason is that they know the only thing usually achieved, is to cheapen the price of the books at the expense of quality. School children should have the best books and the effort should be to reduce the price of these best books instead of to simply secure a cheaper article.

Last week at Madisonville Prof.
Livingston McCartney, superintendent of the Henderson public schools, read a paper along this line at the Second District Educational association meeting. What he said is no doubt the view of most teachers in the state, and among other things, he declared:

"The schools need the best text books at the lowest prices obtainable under open competition. This has been and is still a favorite subject with members of the state legislature.
The great danger in all school book legislation is that the quality of authorship and mechanical execution
will be sacrificed for mere cheapness.
This is suicidal to the educational interests of the children, and is false policy besides. If some of the school who are so ready to draft bills for the fixing of prices on school books would carefully study the experience of the teachers in using the books that have been provided under such laws elsewhere, they would be brought inevitably to the conclusion that they have not the right solution of the problem.
The law, instead of fixing the price
should set the standard of authorship
and mechanical excellence of the book to be considered, and should then keep the prices reduced by enforcing

open competition among publishers.
"More state uniformity without this safeguard will be a detriment to the schools rather than a benefit to them. If the legislature enacts a law establishing uniformity of text books
throughout the state and fixing a paper price within which the books must be sold, it will only operate to give the children of Kentucky inferior books. The pauper price will call forth a low grade of authorship and workmanship.

"I am heartily in favor of breaking up monopoly in school books and of furnishing good books to the children at lower prices than now prevail; but this cannot be accomplished by considering price first and quality second.
We must reverse the order and consider quality first and price second. With a good law enforcing open competition
we can have much lower prices than we now have and still not sacrifice the educational interests of the children.
This may or may not involve state uniformity.

"If state uniformity will enable us to get lower prices on books of the highest excellence than we can otherwise get, and it probably will do so, then let us have this provision in the law. But the main point to be kept in mind is that the standard of excellence, both mechanical and literary,
must first be set; and that from the books which reach this standard those offered at the lowest retail prices
should be chosen."

The Mayfield Messenger is trying to break up that species of fraud practiced so extensively in many country towns where itinerant swindlers hide
themselves to pass worthless checks,
beat board bills and perpetrate
other tricks from selling everything from subscriptions to papers they don't represent to disposing of gold bricks. One detriment to the successful prosecution of such cases is the disposition on part of the victims in such cases to forego prosecution upon repayment of the money out of which they are swindled. As long as this is done the dead beats will continue to run at large and swindle others.
Too many of them go from place to place and get money on worthless or forged checks, and perhaps once in a great while are captured, pay back the money in that one case, and get away
before their other crimes can be laid at their door. Another successful method of escaping justice is by giving a bond of a hundred or two dollars and skipping. If the bond in such cases were fixed so they couldn't give it, they would get their just deserts when circuit court meets.

merce—but the members needn't wor-

CHURCH NEWS

Dr. Burriss Jenkins at First Christian Church.

Special Music a Feature of Sunday Services at Several Churches.

Two large congregations heard Dr.
Burriss Jenkins, of Lexington, president of Kentucky university at the First Christian church Sunday morning and evening in two magnificent addresses. Dr. Jenkins' subject for the morning's discourse was "Religious Unity" and in the evening his topic was "The Charmed Life." His clearness, his logic, his simplicity
and his eloquence made an impression which will not soon be forgotten by those who heard of him. Dr. Jenkins has long been a personal friend of Rev. W. H. Pinkerton, pastor of the First Christian church.

A special collection will be taken at the Broadway Methodist Sunday school next Sunday toward a fund being raised to send Prof. E. A. Fox, of Louisville, secretary of the Kentucky
Sunday School association, to Jerusalem to a world's Sunday school convention next spring. It will require $500 for this fund and it is the desire of the Broadway Methodist Sunday school of which Mr. Fox was once superintendent, to contribute at least $35. The contribution will be entirely voluntary and a slight expression of the esteem in which Prof. Fox is held by this Sunday school to which he gave such efficient service.

There was special music at several of the churches yesterday. Mr. Wm.
Harle of the Fields Minstrels which will appear at the Kentucky tonight rendered a solo at Grace Episcopal church in the evening, and was well received. Mr. Harle was also invited to sing after the church service was over and many remained to hear him.
His splendid tenor voice is immensely
pleasing, and the members of Grace church congregation considered themselves fortunate in hearing him. The beginning of his musical career was as a choir boy in an English church.
Mrs. Minnie Scofield sang a very sweet solo at the First Christian church Sunday evening. Mrs. O. H.
Sherill was soloist at the First Cumberland Presbyterian church. Mr. H.
M. Threlkeld rendered a solo at the Second Baptist church and Mr. Miller had a cornet solo at the Union Rescue Mission.

The revival service at the Rescue Mission, 431 South Third street with Evangelist F. C. Richards, of Kansas City in the pulpit is in progress. Donations of cash, clothing, food or fuel will be thankfully received as they are much needed to relieve the suffering of the worthy poor of our city. R.
W. Ohlles, pastor.

There were three additions to the First Cumberland Presbyterian church
yesterday and one to the Broadway Methodist.

HAS A CURE FOR CANCER BEEN FOUND

London, Nov. 30.—The medical fraternity is exhibiting unusual interest in the new method of treating cancer discovered by Dr. Otto Schmidt, of Cologne.

Several months ago the wife of a well known millionaire discovered that she was suffering from cancer.
An eminent surgeon refused to operate, owing to the hopelessness of her case. She thereupon became a patient of Dr. Otto Schmidt and derived so much benefit from the treatment that her husband dispatched Dr. Johnson to investigate Dr. Otto Schmidt's methods.

Dr. Schmidt's opinion was that cancer was conditional on the presence in the patient of a cancer parasite,
which produced a structural change in the cells of the parts affected. Dr.
Schmidt believes that he has isolated the specific parasite. His explanation of the number of parasites associated with cancer is that they are one and the same, varying in shape and appearance under different conditions.

By altering the conditions, Dr.
Schmidt says that his parasite assumes the different appearances, which have led to its being described by other researchers as several parasites. With this parasite Dr. Schmidt has done two things. He seems to have sterilized it with liquid air, and he has also injected it into animals and developed in them a serum which had the power of destroying cancer cells.

The sterilized parasites he used for one treatment, which he calls the active. The animal serum he used for his second treatment. He found on injecting the first preparation that in eight or ten hours the patient became feverish, and the cancerous growth became painful and inflamed. Both preparations, tried on healthy people, including the lecturer, produced no result. These injections are the treatment. The first is the strongest the serum is a more attenuated form suitable for cases where the patient is much weakened.

Teachers of the District Finish Their Work.

Miss Emma Morgan is Elected President—Other Officials Chosen.

THE RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

The meeting of the First District Educational association in Paducah Friday and Saturday was one of the most successful ever held, and the teachers of Paducah acquitted themselves in a most creditable manner.

Saturday afternoon the meeting adjourned after electing officers.

Miss Emma Morgan was chosen president, the first time a lady was ever elected to the position. Miss Morgan's election is an honor well conferred. She for years was a teacher in the public schools, but is now principal of the Lone Oak college, in the county.

Before adjourning, the teachers adopted the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, That we compliment our officers and committee in that we suppose them above the trite and petty flatteries of associational resolutions, naming each one individually, and that we show our real appreciation of their services by seconding their efforts more efficiently and more effectively for making the future association better agencies for the improvement of educational conditions in Western Kentucky.

2. Resolved, That the county should be made a unit of taxation for the purpose of building, furnishing and repairing school houses, and that this tax should be levied and collected as other county taxes are now levied and collected.

3. Resolved further, That our legislature define a "Village School" as follows: That any school employing two or more teachers shall be a village school.

4. Resolved, That we give our hearty support to the movement in favor of additional state school taxes for the purpose of paying better salaries and giving a school term not shorter than seven months.

AULD BRIG O' AYR.

MOVEMENT ON FOOT TO SECURE APPROPRIATION OF $3,500 TO RESTORE IT.

Not Scotchmen merely, but all admirers of Burns will be sorry to learn that the Auld Brig O' Ayr, which burns immortalized in a poem is in danger of collapsing, says a London cablegram to the New York Herald. It was the spirit of the Auld Brig, which, when reviled by the spirit of the new Brig in the poem, made the remarkable prophecy:

"I'll be a Brig when yere a shapeless cairn, said the Auld Brig to the new."

The prophecy has turned out true now, twenty-five years after, and the Auld Brig is tottering on its foundations, how old it is difficult to say. Out deep into the wall are the figures 1253. There are people who say the date is mythical, but Architect James Norris, who is an expert archaeologist and who is interesting himself in stirring up the Burgh Council to spend the $3,500 necessary to restore the Auld Brig, believes there is nothing improbable in the date. The Ayr Council is beset by one difficulty in the matter, and that is why should they spend $3,500 of the public funds if they can get the money required for nothing? It seems that about a quarter of a century ago a man named Templeton left $50,000 at interest, which at the death of his two sisters was to be devoted to rebuilding the Auld Brig. But the will was a holograph, written on a small piece of paper, and the other distant relatives took proceedings disputing the will. Now the Ayr council will have to ascertain their legal status towards the money, but the wheels of the law revolve slowly and meanwhile the Auld Brig may fall.

Only One More Week of Civil Circuit Court.

A Number of Cases Tried in the Police Court This Morning By Judge Sanders.

NEWS FROM OTHER COURTS

CIRCUIT COURT.

The final week of the civil term of circuit court began this morning, the regular term having ended last Saturday and the time extended by Judge Husbands.

Next Monday morning the regular December criminal term of court will begin and remain in session three weeks.

This morning a suit was filed in circuit court by the Citizens Savings bank, of Paducah against John L. Van Oulin and others, to secure payment of a balance on a note amounting to $312.02. The suit asks for the enforcement of a lien on property held. Edgar Stringfellow was granted a divorce from Birdie Stringfellow.

POLICE COURT.

Frank Kelley, the man who swore a boy going by the name of Ed Kelley was his son, and who is charged with false swearing, was arraigned on the charge today. Kelley is one of the gang of shop lifters, and the boy upon being "sweated" by the police Saturday said he was no son of Kelley, and that his name was Ed Harris, of Yorktown, Pa. A warrant is also issued against him for false swearing, the boy also swearing on the witness stand, before being sweated, that he was Kelly's son. The warrant against the boy, however, is only for the purpose of holding him as a witness against the other man. Kelley says he wants a change of venue, and none being possible in this kind of a case, Judge Sanders said he would have a special judge to try the case, Judge Sanders himself having heard the evidence already. The case was then continued until tomorrow.

Wm. Dazile and Maggie White, charged with immorality, were fined $20 and costs each.

Sam Goodman, Arch Bohannon, W. C. Stanfield, E. Paley, Theobald Peters, Charles E. Graham, and Charles Denker were charged with violation of the Sabbath and all fined $10 and costs with the exception of Bohannon and Stanfield, one of whom was ill and the other absent from the city.

The case against Bob McCormick for alleged robbery was left open until Saturday. Ed Farris, one of those alleged to have robbed old man Ford, claims that they didn't do it. That Ford was so drunk he didn't know anything and the watch was left with George Willow at the Klondike. The shoes, he claims, were found in the yard where Ford had thrown them away or lost them, and sold for 50 cents.

Mr. J. O. Orr, of the Blandville road, living four and a half miles from the city, reports the theft of a cow Saturday night. The police here are on the lookout for it.

Houseman's smokehouse on the North Side was entered by thieves Saturday night and two cans of lard stolen. The police have several negroes under suspicion, but have not yet captured any of them.

James Magnor, drunk, $1; Charles Kaylor, breach of the peace, away; Lon Belt, two cases for breach of the peace, $5 in one case and dismissed in other on motion of prosecuting attorney; Charles Foster, colored, loud and profane language on streets continued; Charles Smith, tramp, drunk, $1; Henry Hostetter, drunk and disorderly, $1 and costs on motion of prosecutor.

Complaint continues to come in from many places on the South Side of prowlers who try to break into residences and in other ways annoy the people. The police are doing all in their power to catch the thieves, but thus far without success.

A stonecutter named W. G. Wolf complained to the police Saturday night that he had been assaulted by three men who he thought he had "hallucinations." They could find no traces of a holdup.

Mind

Impaired and Nerves Shattered

From Excessive Mental Strain.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Gave Back My Health.

It is not always, as you would suppose, that breaks down the health, mental strain, worry, anxiety, the cares of business or the home, have an equally strong tendency towards undermining the nervous system, upon whose vitality the health of the body depends. When you find yourself unduly fretful, anxious, easily excited; when your sleep is troubled and you can get no rest; if you have frequent headache, are losing your appetite and are getting thin, you should begin at once a thorough course of treatment with Dr. Miles' Nervine. There is no nerve tonic so good, so sure, so safe. It speedily restores the weakened nerves to healthy action, and builds strength and tissue.

"I was raised on a farm at hard labor, and when I left the farm and began preaching, the change of occupation and excessive study shattered my nerves and impaired my memory. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine, and after using two bottles I could see a decided improvement, and I continued until I had used nine bottles, when I considered myself completely cured. That was seven years ago so that I know my cure is permanent. My health has been excellent ever since. I am glad to add my testimony to the merits of this wonderful restorative and trust that other sufferers may receive the same benefit from its use that I have."—Rev. W. L. SINGLETON, Duluth, Ga.

Written at Random.

If the comic papers don't watch out,
some of the rural newspapers will soon outclass them. Here is the somewhat original way a neighboring paper the other day wrote up a donation party:

Last night between the hours of 6
and 8, while the family were absent
the parsonage of the Christian church was entered by persons unknown, who,
finding the place deserted, sat down
for a moment's quiet contemplation of the blessings of the day. The exact facts of the case will never be known but it is supposed that one of the timid ones, on glancing thro' the window, spied one of those shadowy beings that keep silent watch in "God's acre" opposite, and fled precipitately, leaving behind her a handsome, well filled purse. Her companions, presumably stood not upon the order of their going but also went at once, leaving behind them flour sugar, broom, preserves, syrup, vegetables, etc. One of them in his haste, also left a giant footprint not "on the sands of time" for this truth, not poetry, but on the snow.
Accurate measurements of this impression were placed in the hands of a detective, who, from this slender clue, readily fixed upon Pate Parrish as the perpetrator, who confessed and implicated several others.

When the timid one was asked if guilty she replied "guilty," good people. To the cause question the man with the broom, answered "more guilty dear ones" and the others answered in a chorus, "most guilty." Then the juge lifted up his voice and said, "Hold up your heads and receive your sentence: Go accept the warmest thanks of the parson and his family for the kind tokens of remembrance, and don't be long in returning upon a like errand."

Hogs are not credited with having a superabundance of intelligence, and according to Master Commissioner Gip husbands a hog can sometimes be the most exasperating thing imaginable.
Not long ago the master commissioner planted forty acres of corn on his farm near the city, and one day when it was just beginning to do well he discovered one of his best porkers in the field. He found the hole where it got in, and then started forth to drive it out. He says that no man who has never had the experience of chasing a hog over a forty acre field trying to persuade it to get out of the hole it got in, can fully appreciate the task.
Up and down they ran, over furrows
and through the corn, but the thick-headed swine serenely passed by the hole every time, without deigning to give it even a glance.

Mr. Husbands finally concluded that he had reached a point when forbearance was entirely out of the question, and felt certain that the hog knew
where that hole was as well as he did.
So he took a long breath, gave his trousers a yank, and entered on another sprint. He caught up with the animal, seized it by the hind legs and gave it such a whack on a stump that it squealed a time or two and straightway became pork. Mr. Husbands then took it and lugging it a few hundred yards pushed it through the hole,
declaring in convincing tones, "Now,
blank you, I guess you'll know that hole next time you come to it!" He went home satisfied and gave the carcass to one of the farm hands.

A Paris correspondent of one of the big journals tells some of the schemes
Paris newspapers resort to to get subscribers.

The Parisian paper which recently buried a large amount of money in the streets of this city and which I hear has been imitated by a New York daily, is not the first Paris paper to advertise for readers in an original manner. We have seen many such papers come, only to disappear.

There was the Oroganost, which was printed on black paper and which offered its subscribers free burial.
This mournful looking paper failed
after a life of only a few months.

We have seen the Benefactor, which for 10 cents a month supplied its subscribers with medicine and medical attendance.

Then came the Naiade, which preached cleanliness and was printed on "insubmersible" paper and which could be read in the bath tub or while you were taking a dip at Trouville.

After these came the Bonte, whose subscribers were allowed to choose their own editors: the Pour et Sontre,
which had two editors of diametrical
opposite opinions, to please everybody,
and the Guillotine, printed in red ink,
which offered its readers a seat in the front rank at public executions.

failed, and the Parisian of today, revolutionary though he is in many respects, continues to read his Matin or Figaro.

A popular young lady tells a good joke on herself. The other night her sweetheart came around and asked her to go to the show. She consented and he left to go to the barber shop and get shaved before time for the performance. She decided shortly afterwards that she didn't believe she cared to go, and desiring to let him know before he procured tickets, went to the telephone to tell him. She knew the place he usually got his shave, but there was no 'phone there. She telephoned a friend in a store nearby and told the young man she wanted to speak to him a moment. Her friend was busy, so he called his porter and instructed the mission to him. The porter did not understand, it seems.
He came back from the barber shop in a few moments and going to the 'phone said "Hello."

"Hello" came the response.
"A young lady dat wanted Mistah
B—" he inquired.
"Yes."
"Well dey say he doan wuk dah, miss."
The young lady went to the show
after all.

is and does

It is simply a good, honest, common-

rich Port Wine and Pure Pepsin,— nothing else. It is not a cure-all, or a medicine for acute or chronic diseases.

It does not take the place of the impaired, impoverished nerves, muscles and blood, and promotes a perfect condition of vigorous health. It is a valuable remedy for dyspepsia, indiges-

for weakened vitality and impaired strength. It is a preparation of great worth for nursing mothers, tired
women, old folks, invalids and conva-

by physicians and prescribed by them
—both its constituents being of long

But the Duke's hand fell upon his shoulder with a grip that must have got to the bone, and in a husky voice he asked:

"Will she live?"
The doctor squirmed, but could not shake off the crushing grip.

"Here, you young tiger, let go! What do you think I am made of?" he cried angrily. "I didn't suppose I was coming to a bear's den or I should have brought a gun."

It was only by the most complete apology that the Duke could mollify the old doctor sufficiently to get his opinion. "No, she will not die! Great bit of stuff! Better she should die, perhaps! But can't say yet for two weeks. Now remember," he added sharply, looking into the Duke's face, "her spirits must be kept up. I have lied most fully and cheerfully to them inside. You must do the same." And the doctor strode away, calling out:

"Joe! Here, Joe! Where is he gone? Joe, I say! Extraordinary selection Providence makes at times; we could have spared that lazy half breed with pleasure! Joe! Oh, here you are! Where in thunder— But here the doctor stopped abruptly. The agony in the dark face before him was too much even for the bluff doctor. Straight and stiff Joe stood by the horse's head till the doctor had mounted. Then with a great effort he said:

"Little miss, she's dead?"
"Dead!" called out the doctor, glancing at the open window. "Why, bless your old copper carcass, no! Gwen will show you yet how to rope a steer." Joe took a step nearer, and, lowering his tone, said:

"You speak me true? Me man, me no paopose." The piercing black eyes searched the doctor's face. The doctor hesitated a moment, and then, with an air of great candor, he said cheerily: "That's all right, Joe. Miss Gwen will cut circles round your old cayuse yet. But remember," and the doctor was very impressive, "you must make her laugh every day."
Joe folded his arms across his breast and stood like a statue till the doctor rode away. Then, turning to us, he grunted out:

"Him good man, eh?"
"Good man," answered the Duke, adding, "but remember, Joe, what he told you to do—must make her laugh every day."
Poor Joe! Humor was not his forte, and his attempt in this direction in the weeks that followed would have been humorous were they not so pathetic. How I did my part I cannot tell. Those weeks are to me now like the memory of an ugly nightmare. The ghostly old man moving out of and into his little daughter's room in useless, dumb agony, Ponka's woe stricken Indian face, Joe's extraordinary and unusual but loyal attempts at fun making—grotesquely sad, and the Duke's unvarying and invincible cheerfulness—these furnish light and shade for the picture my memory brings me of Gwen in those days.

For the first two weeks she was simply heroic. She bore her pain without a groan, submitted to the imprisonment, which was harder than pain, with angelic patience. Joe, the Duke and I carried out our instructions with careful exactness to the letter. She never doubted, and we never let her doubt, but that in a few weeks she would be on the pinto's back again and after the cattle. She made us pass our word for this till it seemed as if she must have read the falsehoods on our brows.

"To lie cheerfully with her eyes upon one's face calls for more than I possess," said the Duke one day. "The doctor should supply us tonics. It is an arduous task."
And she believed us absolutely, and made plans for the fall round up and for hunts and rides till one's heart grew sick. As to the ethical problem involved, I decline to express an opinion, but we had no need to wait for our punishment. Her trust in us, her eager and confident expectation of the return of her happy, free, outdoor life, these brought to us, who knew how vain they were, their own adequate punishment for every false assurance we gave. And how bright and brave she was those first days! How resolute to get back to the world of air and light outside!

But she had need of all her brightness and courage and resolution before she was done with her long fight.

CHAPTER XII. GWEN'S CANTON.

GWEN'S hope and bright courage, in spite of all her pain, were wonderful to witness. But all this cheery hope and courage and patience snuffed out as a candle, leaving noisome darkness to settle down in that sick room, from the day of the doctors' consultation.

The verdict was clear and final. The old doctor, who loved Gwen as his own, was inclined to hope against hope, but Fawcett, the clever young doctor from the distant town, was positive in his opinion. The scene is clear to me now, after many years. We three stood in the outer room, the Duke and her father were with Gwen. So earnest was the discussion that none of us heard the door open just as young Fawcett was saying in incisive tones:

"No! I can see no hope. The child can never walk again."

There was a cry behind us.
"What! Never walk again? It's a lie!" There stood the Old Timer, white, fierce, shaking.

"Hush!" said the old doctor, pointing at the open door. He was too late. Even as he spoke there came from the inner room a wild, unearthly cry as of some dying thing, and, as we stood gazing at one another with awe-stricken faces, we heard Gwen's voice as in quick, sharp pain.

"Daddy! Daddy! Come! What do they say? Tell me, daddy. It is not true! It is not true! Look at me, daddy!"

She pulled up her father's haggard face from the bed.

"Oh, daddy, daddy, you know it's true. Never walk again!"

She turned with a pitiful cry to the Duke, who stood white and stiff, with arms drawn tight across his breast, on the other side of the bed.

"Oh, Duke, did you hear them? You told me to be brave, and I tried not to cry when they hurt me. But I can't be brave! Can I, Duke? Oh, Duke! Never to ride again!"

She stretched out her hands to him, but the Duke, leaning over her and holding her hands fast in his, could only say brokenly over and over: "Don't, Gwen! Don't, Gwen, dear!"

But the pitiful, pleading voice went on:

"Oh, Duke! Must I always lie here? Must I? Why must I?"

"God knows," answered the Duke bitterly, under his breath, "I don't!"

She caught at the word.

"Does he?" she cried eagerly. Then she paused suddenly, turned to me and said, "Do you remember he said some day I could not do as I liked?"

I was puzzled.

"The Pilot!" she cried impatiently. "Don't you remember? And I said I should do as I liked till I died."

I nodded my head and said, "But you know you didn't mean it."

"But I did, and I do," she cried, with passionate vehemence, "and I will do as I like! I will not lie here! I will ride! I will! I will! I will!" and she struggled up, clinched her fists and sank back faint and weak. It was not a pleasant sight, but gruesome. Her rage against that Unseen Omnipotence was so defiant and so helpless.

Those were dreadful weeks to Gwen and to all about her. The constant pain could not break her proud spirit; she shed no tears, but she fretted and chafed and grew more imperiously exacting every day. Ponka and Joe she drove like a slave master, and even her father, when he could not understand her wishes, she impatiently banished from her room. Only the Duke could please or bring her any cheer, and even the Duke began to feel that the day was not far off when he, too, would fail, and the thought made him despair. Her pain was hard to bear, but harder than the pain was her longing for the open air and the free, flower strewn, breeze swept prairie. But most pitiful of all were the days when in her utter weariness and uncontrollable unrest she would pray to be taken down into the canyon.

"Oh, it is so cool and shady," she would plead, "and the flowers up in the rocks and the vines and things are all so lovely. I am always better there. I know I should be better," till the Duke would be distracted and would come to me and wonder what the end would be.

One day, when the strain had been more terrible than usual, the Duke rode down to me and said:
"Look here. This thing can't go on. Where is the Pilot gone? Why doesn't he stay where he belongs? I wish to heaven he would get through with his absurd rambling."

"He's gone where he was sent," I replied shortly. "You don't set much store by him when he does come round. He is gone on an exploring trip through the Dog Lake country. He'll be back by the end of next week."

"I say, bring him up, for heaven's sake!" said the Duke. "He may be of some use, and anyway it will be a new face for her, poor child." Then he added, rather penitently: "I fear this thing is getting on to my nerves. She almost drove me out today. Don't lay it up against me, old chap."

It was a new thing to hear the Duke confess his need of any man, much less penitence for a fault. I felt my eyes growing dim, but I said roughly: "You be hanged! I'll bring the Pilot up when he comes."

It was wonderful how we had all come to confide in the Pilot during his year of missionary work among us. Somehow the cowboy's name of "Sky Pilot" seemed to express better than anything else the place he held with us. Certain it is that when, in their dark hours, any of the fellows felt in need of help to strike the "upward trail" they went to the Pilot, and so the name first given in chaff came to be the name that expressed most truly the deep and tender feeling these rough, big hearted men cherished for him.

AND HE GOT.

GEORGE REYNOLDS LOST NO TIME IN DISAPPEARING.

George Reynolds, one of the four white men arrested last week for shoplifting and being a general bad character, was this morning released by Judge Sanders in police court. Reynolds had been with the men, but there was nothing to connect him with the theft of the pants stolen from Aultman, for which O'Brien got three months.

Judge Sanders stated to the prisoner that he might be all right, but that like Old Dog Tray, he had been caught in mighty bad company, and that he had better lose no time in getting out of the town, because a telegram might be received in regard to him at any minute.

Reynolds said he would get out, and a kind hearted attorney informed him as he passed out that he could get a train at 9:15. It was then 9:10 and it is presumed Reynolds caught the train.

Theatrical Notes.

The Lyman twins played to fairly large audiences at The Kentucky Saturday and gave satisfaction.

Mr. E. Kendall, in advance of Lewis Morrison, was in the city yesterday. Mr. Morrison will be here Saturday.

Mr. Chris McMahon, the well known tuba and double bass player, is today playing with the Al G. Field minstrels, and has an offer to join the troupe, but will probably decline the offer. Mr. McMahon is one of the best in the business, and has had considerable experience on the road.

Vocal music is the sheet anchor of modern minstrelsy. With it there could be nothing like a complete performance, and whether it be a ballad dedicated to my lady love, a rag time ditty fresh from the south, or a walk around in which the entire company participates, music is the one thing that pleases and attracts. The Al G. Field Greater Minstrels offers everything worth hearing in the vocal line. At The Kentucky tonight.

The attraction at The Kentucky on Tuesday night is Nat M. Wills, the merry tramp of vaudeville fame who is this season displaying his peculiar talents in the musical comedy field offering to us Managers Broadhurst and Currie's gigantic production of "A Son of Rest." From all accounts Mr. Wills seems to have started on a career of success through the medium of this play which will, in all probability, end in his being classed as an attraction of the first calibre. His engagements have been confined to the principal cities of the country and he is there said to have struck the keynote of prosperity, in fact having already played return engagements in many of the larger cities and is booked for his third term in one of the big metropolitan playhouses.

The scenic equipment of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" which will be seen here January 20, 1904 at The Kentucky is very elaborate. Many have asked, "Why is Quincy Adams Sawyer called the best New England play ever written?" The answer has invariably been, "Because it's different from any other play of its class."

"But why is it different?" "On everything is so natural, the people are just like the people you see in the country, the scenery is just as real as anything," is the reply. The husking bee scene alone would win fame for the play. The real red ears, the real kisses, the real supper and the natural and humorous incidents attending the features have pleased immense audiences all over the country. There is nothing in it approaching a villain or an adventure for it is not a melodrama, and the play "leaves a good taste in the mouth" and that is, after all, what the people want.

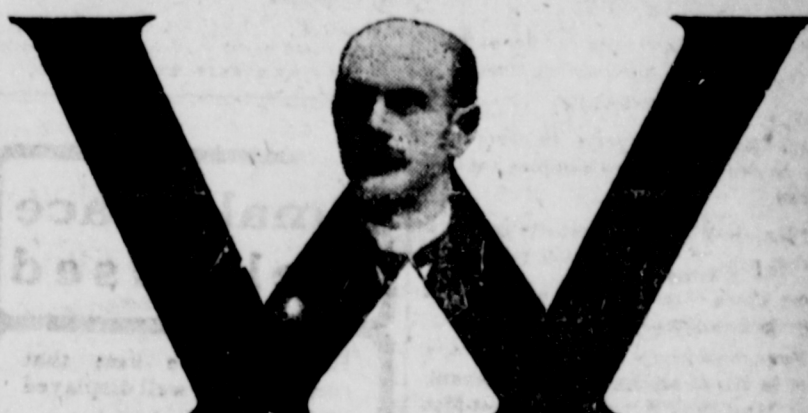

FIRE HORSES

NONE HAVE YET BEEN BOUGHT BY THE CITY.

So far the city authorities have been unable to buy any suitable fire horses for the fire departments. The matter has been referred to the mayor who referred it to Dr. H. O. Warner, the veterinary surgeon, and Chief Woods of the fire department. Several dozen horses have been inspected, some suiting physically but the price being too high. Chief Woods stated this morning that he hoped to have acquired two suitable in price before the week is out.
